Financing and support that help you meet your goals

In partnership with SAMSUNG

Keep up with changes in tech

A growing number of organisations are moving their technology costs to an operating expenses (OpEx) model. This means that they have the funds to pay for smaller purchases when they need them and don't need to wait to have enough money for big investments.

Apart from the obvious benefit of keeping up-front costs low, a pay-for-what-you-use model improves agility, allowing you to react and make changes faster without being tied down by huge costs.

“ Business operates at a breakneck pace today and companies can't be caught running out of capacity or resources for anything ”

– Forbes¹

We understand your budgetary needs

In partnership with Samsung, Virgin Media O2 Business offers you flexible finance options. With us, you get leading connectivity, the latest devices and comprehensive support services – all offered in a finance model that works for you.

Make budgeting and forecasting easier with predictable monthly fees – you'll have peace of mind that there'll never be any unexpected costs

Getting a suite of services all from a single point of contact means that you relieve your procurement team of the admin burden of never-ending contract negotiations

You can keep up with the pack by spreading the costs of new projects – there's no need to miss the right moment because your capital is tied up

Support that helps you get the most out of your investment

Managed logistics

Say goodbye to costly downtime. Get up and running fast and keep devices healthy.

We offer comprehensive support to ensure that your hardworking teams get full use of your tech investment.

- We support by configuring and deploying devices so new starters can begin right away
- You avoid downtime with our commitment to repair or replace faulty devices within 24 hours²

Unified endpoint management (UEM)

Get the visibility you need to support your people. Provide consistency and security.

Our UEM solution is a single management portal that ensures your teams can stay productive.

- Visibility on your device fleet and full control over your network so you can get ahead of any disruptions
- The option to push security updates to all devices exactly when you want so your team won't be disturbed by updates

Our services scale to match your device estate – so you don't pay for more than you need

The flexibility and support your organisation needs to thrive

With our flexible financing options, you never need to gamble on big outright purchases. Instead, you can get tailored offerings that suit your needs.

And we'll make sure that you get the most out of your technology – we'll be with you every step of the way.

“ New technology leads to incredible things: greater employee engagement and higher levels of productivity. But this relies on using the technology that is the best for you and your workforce's unique set of circumstances.”
